The report looks at the relationship between hotel chains, their myriad of brands, and the wider world of hospitality and lodging.

A very warm welcome to the new edition of the Horwath HTL Chains & Hotels Report, the third annual instalment. The report looks at the relationship between hotel chains, and their myriad of brands, and the wider world of hospitality and lodging.

There have been two big stories over the last 25 years in the industry, and we look at them both in the report.

The first has been the inexorable growth and expansion of branded hotels and their wider significance in the landscape of hospitably. Every year sees the creation and introduction of more and more brands, both international and domestic, as a way to drive market share through dentity, segmentation and increasing scale. This is being done in a variety of ways, either through the introduction of brands with a proven track record in other countries, the creation of new brands from scratch or the slicing and dicing of existing brands to make them go furthe

The second large trend has been the change in the mode for owning and operating hotels. What impact has this asset light approach had on growth? What is interesting and a complicating factor, is how each market has a different tolerance for each model and how that can work for/against chains trying to sign more deals.

We look at the models used by the chain companies and see which ones are the most prevalent, in which market segment.

In this edition, we have enhanced the report in a number f key ways. Firstly, we have greatly expanded the scope of the markets, from 12 last year to 22 this. Our goal is to cover every market in Europe and we are well on the way to achieving that. Secondly, we have added a lot of information about hotel ownership; who has been active buying and selling hotels, what were the biggest deals done last year and where is that money coming from. Lastly, we have been able to identify and highlight where next years deals have been signed and when these new hotels are likely to open.

All in all, it is a comprehensive look at a vibrant hotel market, one that has had significant growth over the last ew years. We hope you enjoy reading the report as much as we enjoyed putting it together.

For this latest edition, we have collected much more information. We have data on business models, transaction and investment numbers as well as the number of hotel deals being signed.

In the compilation of the data, we asked our offices to not rely on available local data, but to create our own databases from scratch. Once that was done, we checked our results with institutional data providers who have comprehensive numbers on hotels, restaurants, hostels and all the rest.

We then dug deeper into each market to get an understanding of the players, and what size and scope they have. We looked at overall ranking by size in each country, by overall group (hotels and rooms) and by brand. We broke the information down by domestic and international groups and brands, and then by scale/style of hotels.

For this latest edition, we have started collecting much more information on business models, looking at the four main types; namely owner operator, management contract, franchise and lease. We don't have all of this information for all hotels, but we have enough to show us the general trends and see which models are popular where. We also look at ownership details, and are grateful to include information from the leading collector and exponent of this information, Real Capital Analytics. RCA collect transactional data across all real estate classes and are a wealth of information about the movers and shakers in the hotel world.

In order to standardize the data, we looked at the same KPI's across all countries using the same methodology:

- Total number of chain hotels
- Total number of chain rooms
- Average size per chain hotel in rooms
- Country hotels stock (overall supply)
- Country rooms stock (overall supply)
- Average size per hotel in rooms
- Chain penetration \% by hotels
- Chain penetration \% by keys
- Total number of brands
- Domestic brands
- International brands
- Second tier operated hotels
- International chain hotels (incl. double counting)
- Domestic chain hotels (incl. double counting)
- International chain rooms (incl. double counting)
- Domestic chain rooms (incl. double counting)

For the 12 markets where we have YoY data, there has been a significant amount of growth of Chain hotels in 2018. There was a total of 686 new hotels, equating to 73,802 rooms, which is just over 4\% growth.

Total Market
For this edition of the report, we have collected data from 22 European countries, ten more than last year, and have year to year data from 12. This means a really fascinating spread from countries like Albania with 12 Chain hotels all the way to France with 3,885 . The spread and the scale of the market is impressive, let's start with some overall numbers.

The market (22 countries) has a grand total of 146,616 hotels, which accounts for just over six million bedrooms. The average number of rooms per hotel in the market is 61, and range from a massive 238 in a resort destination like Cyprus, to 20 in Albania. Two of the largest markets, France and Spain, have a very disparate number with the average French hotel having just 36 rooms and the average Spanish hotel 94.

Chains

For the Chain Hotel market, there are 18,575 hotels with a total of $2,289,879$ million bedrooms. This means that Chain hotels make up $13 \%$ of the overall hotel market, but represent $38 \%$ of the room market. Not surprisingly, the average size of Chain hotels is over twice the size of the whole market at 131 rooms. Here the spread is much more even, representing the consistency of hotel brands, with 19 out of the 22 markets having average chain room numbers of between 106 and 190

Brands

In terms of the total number of brands, the average
country has 82 hotel brands present. This range goes from Albania with 4 , to Spain with 253 . Spain has the most domestic brands, 187, whilst Germany has the most International brands with 131.

Growth

For the 12 markets where we have year on year data there has been a significant amount of growth of Chain hotels in 2018. There was a total of 686 new hotels, equating to 73,802 rooms which is just over $4 \%$ growth.

In contrast, the overall market grew by less than $1 \%$, meaning that if you take out new build hotels, the overall market probably lost more independent hotels than they gained. The total number of brands grew 7\%, or 102. This doesn't mean 102 new brands entered the market, but brands entered into markets they had not been in before.

Albania

Albania has never been as attractive for tourism investments as it is now. Hotel chains are chasing opportunities to enter Tirana or start up resorts along the 350 km of unspoiled coast.

The Market
Albania is one of the few almost undiscovered destinations on the Mediterranean coast. The popularity on European incoming markets has grown impressively during the last 3 years - Hilton, Hyatt, Melià and formerly Sheraton, have all established a presence.

2019 will be a crucial year: in May 2018 the Government launched a FDI incentive plan dedicated to hotels and resorts, to further support chains' curiosity and some initial impacts are already evident. Hotels size is still limited and the industry is highly fragmented. With the exclusion of ten hotels which survived during communism, $90 \%$ of the Albanian hotel portfolio was started during the late 90s, with most development happening over the last 7-8 years. Hotel chains cover 1\% of the hotels portfolio for less than a thousand rooms.

International chains curiosity is growing, together with a perception of reduced country business risk, thus pipeline projects are abundant and will lead to double current branded portfolio in 2-year time. Most future development will take place in the capital and in coastal areas of Vlore, especially along the southern coasts facing Corfù and bordering Greece. If resorts development will be kept under adequate sustainable levels and embraced into a long-term vision, Albania will be able to make the best out of its tourism in 5 years from now.

Key Points

- 350 km of beaches

Albania offers over 350 km of beaches along the Adriatic and lonian seas, with a very limited industrial and logistics presence on its coasts, which makes most of the bays, gulfs and peninsulas unspoiled and pristine. $\mathrm{S} \& \mathrm{~B}$ resorts development, if adequately planned, is the key opportunity.

- Tirana yet open to greenfield projects Tirana has recently welcomed 2 Best Western, a planned re-branding of a former Sheraton into a Park Hyatt, a Garden Inn and other international brands have been announced. The capital is vibrant in terms of international demand curiosity and open to greenfield projects to be located within wider plans of re-building of central and peripheral districts.

Croatia

Croatia is seen as one of most attractive destinations of the Mediterranean, yet the hotel sector is dominated by domestic chains. However, project pipeline is strongly inclined towards international brands.

The Market
The Croatian hotel market is stagnating in supply development ( $1 \%$ increase in overall room stock supply in 2018) primarily due to the current market being favourable for development of private accommodation (i.e. low taxes, regulatory environment) and low incentives for hotel development, which is the key reason for the dominance of domestic hotel chains ( $9 \%$ of hotel companies are generating $85 \%$ of total industry revenue).

High seasonality and the current level of 'doing business in Croatia' (ranked 58th overall, and 159th in dealing with construction permits) is still a major barrier for international investors, especially in terms of overtaking development and ownership risks - however there are positive examples on the market which may boost the investors' confidence.

In 2018, we saw growth (RevPar 16\% YoY), however with a slowdown risk coming from the Mediterranean recovery and the price driven growth strategies without significant incremental increase in value-added offering starting to loose its competitiveness. On the other hand, the pre and post season offers significant upside potential, which can be captured with smart initiatives and management. Zagreb as the only 'continental' destination that is on the rise, with 3 new chain hotels in 2018, and 3 new in the pipeline.

Key Points

- Domestic chains main driver of growth Domestic Chains have been active on the investment market with major chains opening at least one new property in 2018 - Top 5 chains added 11 properties and 2,5 thousand new rooms to the market. Other players have been primarily focused on development of small hotels.
- New brands from domestic chains Most of the leading domestic players have engaged into a portfolio branding process increasing the number of domestic brands of the market. This trend is aligned with the European market developments, however the motives of this process are still to be revealed (i.e. sale of portfolio, regional expansion)

Hotel market still betting on summer season Even though Zagreb is on the rise (with 3 new internationally branded projects in pipeline) the main part of the pipeline is focused on the coastal areas ( $75 \%$ of total pipeline) and into recognised destinations (Hvar, Dubrovnik, Rovinj, Poreč).

Cyprus

International chains are a new phenomenon. For decades, only a few domestic brands were present in the market. This is now changing as international brands see the opportunities.

The Market

Tourism in Cyprus in recent years has surpassed expectations. 2019 was a record year with the highest arrivals ever reaching a peak 3.94 m compared to 3.6 m in 2017 and 2.6 m in 2016 enjoying an increase of $13 \%$ compared to 2018 and a 5th consecutive year of growth.

Major countries of tourism origin remain UK, Russia, Germany, Greece and Sweden and major months of arrivals being the period May - October.

The most preferred geographical destinations were Paphos and Ayia Napa - Protaras and 3-4 star hotels appear to be the most popular format

Hotels occupancy has expectedly increased throughou whilst seasonality in some districts is declining. This has driven the building of new hotels. The positive developments in tourism has increased the interest of foreign investors for hotel acquisitions and new buildings (high stars and with more keys)

Christos Michaelides, Managing Director Horwath HTL Cyprus

Key Points

- The opportunities

By 2030, Cyprus tourism strategy envisages stronge links to premium tourism models (thus further improving quality versus quantity) whilst more than 20,000 beds are still needed to cover the needs.

- Local Brands

A number of successful local brands such as Olympic Lagoon and Anvani have sprung, having already expanded in the local area (Greece and Malta) and look promising for the near future

- International chain

International chains seek further expansion on the island whilst long-existing chains also wish further growth. A number of new chains are testing the waters for presence in Cyprus. The exceptionally good results of tourism and premium strategy will become the catalyst to attract quality driven brands.

Denmark

The market has very few brands of any description, but the brands they do have, have critical mass. $23 \%$ of hotels and $48 \%$ of rooms have a brand affiliation.

The Market
This is the first time that Denmark has featured in the report. The Danish market is small, with 133 chain hotels, 6th lowest, out of 22 markets covered, with only 23 brands, well below the report average of 81 . The penetration of chain hotels and rooms is relatively high though, with branded hotels making up $23 \%$ of hotel stock and bedrooms almost $50 \%$. This is reflected in the average size of the hotels, with chain affiliated hotels having an average of 176 rooms as opposed to the average market size of 83 .

The majority of chain affiliated hotels are in the upscale and upper upscale segment with 85 hotels equating to 14,802 rooms. The budget and economy sector is the next larger with 26 hotels, and finally the midscale segment with 20 hotels. The economy and midscale segments is exclusively made up of local players, but the higher tier is an almost $50-50$ split between domestic and international brands.

In terms of groups, local player Arp Hansen has a total of 13 hotels, which are branded under their 'Wakeup' economy flag, the rest are owned and managed but unbranded. The next largest is Swedish Hotel company Scandic, which has 26 hotels equating to 4,623 rooms.

The transactional market in Denmark is small compared to the rest of Europe, with only 10 transactions being registered during the course of the year.

Key Points

- Upscale segments predominate

The Danish hotel market is heavily skewed towards what used to be called four star Hotels. Recently however, there are signs that the popular 'budget design' segment that has become prevalent in Europe is being developed. Arp Hansens 'Wakeup' brand is a good example.

- Few brands, but highly branded

The market has very few brands of any description, but the brands they do have, have critical mass. $23 \%$ of hotels and $48 \%$ of rooms have a brand affiliation.

France

2018 was a record year for French tourism as demand was sustained by long-haul travelers, from China and North America. Looking forward, the 2024 Olympics is a good target for developers.

The Market
2018 was another record year for French tourism as demand is sustained by long haul travelers, especially from China and North America

As a result, Paris RevPAR recorded a double digit growth. The market dynamics of the French capital is very strong and expand as an oil spot to the surrounding region of lle de France and specifically in La Defense and the airports.

The provinces remain, with the exception of the French Alps and Côte d'Azur, mostly impacted by domestic and short haul tourism. As a result the growth in performance remains moderate even in the top ten metros.

Despite the yellow jacket protests which took place during November and December, consolidated French RevPAR recorded a growth over 7\% according to STR.

The main question raised for 2019 concerns the sustainability of this growth in RevPAR with regards to country's social climate. On the longer term still, prospects for French hotels remain good in the perspective of the 2024 Olympics and the country is on the agenda of most hotel developers.

Key Points

- 49\% European room inventory France shows the highest chain penetration in Europe at $49 \%$ of the room inventory. At the time consortia tend to lose affiliates, franchisors are growing at a fast pace.
- Accor setting the pace

Accor remains by far the leading player followed by Louvre Hotel Group and B&B Hotels. The French hotel giant takes advantage of a very diversified brand portfolio from budget to luxury that develops though acquisitions and creations. Originally owner and operator, Accor develops successfully in France as a franchisor.

- Brand rooms on the rise

Whereas the overall chain supply grows moderately, the number of rooms under international brands is on the rise and underlines the maturity of the market of a more diversified hotel supply with and increasing share of hostels, lifestyle and luxury hotels.

Greece

Greek tourism has managed to hit one record year after the other in terms of arrivals and revenues. Greece is now one of the top 15 destinations in the World.

The Market
Since the start of the Greek economic crisis in 2010, tourism has been the only sector that remained resilient and grew steadily, in terms of arrivals and revenues. Greece is recognized for its impeccable sea & sun product, culture & gastronomy, strong city breaks, nautical and MICE components. The key markets for Greek tourism continue to be Germany, UK, France, Italy, Netherlands, Austria, Bulgaria, Turkey, Russia and USA.

Even though revenues and arrivals has grown, hotel supply did not follow at the same pace. The sector is still capitalising on existing hotel stock, although in 2018 there was an increase of numbers in accommodation capacity. More specifically, we had an increase of $2,9 \%$ in rooms and a 3,7\% increase in beds, despite the fact that in total numbers, hotel units remained almost the same. What is worth noting, is the increase of 5 -star and 4 -star hotels, by an additional 151 units, highlighting the effort to upgrade and develop new keys in order to cope with the increased demand.

Greece remains a great investment opportunity for International hotel chains, since, only $1.7 \%$ of total units operate under an international brand. In 2018 there was an increase of their market share by almost $15 \%$ in rooms capacity and $12.1 \%$ in beds capacity highlighting the attractiveness of the Greek tourism product and its potential for further development.

Xenophon Petropoulos, Managing Director
Horwath HTL Greece

Key Points

- Greek hotels shift upmarket In 2018, 150 luxury hotels started their operations, resulting to 5505 -star hotels and 1.5814 -star hotels out of total of 9.873 units. This is more than one in five $(21,6 \%)$ hotels in the country that now belong to the top 4 -star and 5 -star categories.
- Hotel Chains represent $1 / 4$ of overall capacity Although, only $8,06 \%$ of hotels are part of a Hotel Group or Brand, due to their larger size, they represent the $25 \%$ of the available beds.
- Greek hotel Chains stay domestic Although several domestic hotel groups have developed a strong brand image and position during the past few years, none of them have been transformed into an international Group, except IKOS Resorts which will commence operations in Spain and Portugal over the following years.

Hungary

The CEE region experienced economic growth and booming tourism in 2018. As the darling of operator and investor interest, Hungary is capitalising on this positive trend.

The Market
Demand growth for hotels in Budapest is driven by the large European outbound and US markets. Increasing diversity of traveller profiles from Asian markets is also contributing to the surge in demand with the fastest growth expected from China owing to additional direct flights confirmed for 2019. Rural hotels primarily cater to local demand and international travellers mainly from the neighbouring countries.

Budapest has managed to establish a firm position within European tourism and now not only competes with other cities in CEE but with major European capitals. Airport passenger traffic reached 14.9 million registering a staggering $14.5 \% \mathrm{y}-\mathrm{o}-\mathrm{y}$ increase.
The tourism sector has been the beneficiary of an unprecedented level of state support over the last two years. The National Tourism Strategy that has committed EUR 2.6 billion of investment in tourism infrastructure developments across the country substantiates this.

A total of 10 hotels opened in Hungary in 2018 of which 6 were in Budapest. This includes Hungary's first internationally branded airport hotel (ibis Styles), the world's first smart hotel, the KviHotel, and the Hotel Clark and D8 Hotel, operated by Continental Group. New property openings will continue in 2019, such as the Hyatt Unbound Collection and Meininger Hotel.

Key Points

- Another record year in KPIs Revenues at hotels grew by 9\% in 2018. Occupancy reached $75 \%$ in Budapest and $56 \%$ countrywide, while ADR averaged $6.6 \%$ and $3.4 \%$ YoY growth respectively. Despite positive trends, growth can only be sustainable going forward if Budapest remains the host of large-scale events, which appears to correspond with the agenda on the state to bring more international sports events to the city, living up to the commitment to make Budapest the Sporting Capital of Europe in 2019.
- Budapest still the unrivalled hot-spot Of the total hotel guest nights and room revenues, $40 \%$ and $55 \%$ have been realized in hotels in Budapest respectively in 2018. Amongst the key capital cities in CEE, Budapest ranked 3rd with a RevPAR of EUR 70.2 behind Vienna and Prague.
- Home sharing is here to stay

Year round active Airbnb rentals reached over 10,000 units in 2018, which is approximately $50 \%$ of the total hotel room supply in Budapest. This supply segment did not exist 5 years ago, yet despite its staggering growth, it helped the destination absorb the growing demand. While this trend is expected to continue, regulations will be inevitable and have already begun in certain districts contributing to the slowing pace of supply growth in this relatively new commercial accommodation segment.

Ireland

Abstract

Dublin shows no sign of slow down as new hotel developments start construction and others are close to completion. We anticipate 1,600 rooms will be completed in the capital in 2019.

Key Points

- New brands

A number of new brands have announced that they will enter the Dublin market in the next couple of years. These include Aloft and Moxy, both by Marriott. Other new entrants include Easy Hotel, Hampton by Hilton, Hard Rock Hotel, Hyatt Centric, Marlin Hotel (part of the Marlin serviced apartment group) and Motel One.

- Large hotel transactions

Three large sales during the year were the sale of Tifco's portfolio to Apollo Global Management, the sale of Hilton Garden Inn to Israeli backed LRC group for an estimated $€ 100 \mathrm{~m}$ and the sale of Citywest Hotel to Tetrarch for a reported $€ 70 \mathrm{~m}$.

- Galway trumps Cork on brand growth Dublin continues to tower over all the other Irish markets in terms of chain supply with 68 hotels ( 13,123 rooms), an increase of $5 \%$ on last year. From 2017 Galway beats Cork to second spot with 16 hotels (1,706 rooms).

Italy

Abstract

Hospitality in Italy is consolidating its ownership and corporate structure. Its competitive backbone is no longer family-run hotels: core assets are in the hands of hundreds of operators and owners.

The Market

2018 was a year of confirmation and consolidation. Hotels demand grew $+2.3 \%$, thanks to international flows. The hotel industry continued to consolidate in operating chains ( $16 \%$ of rooms) and owning structure, due to the expansion of domestic operators and the unrest in investment funds' interest. Overall, the last 3 years have been very vibrant, with several M&A deals.

During 2018, a sustained period of consolidation saw many domestic operators go beyond the threshold of 4 hotels needed to be considered a chain, meaning the total number of brands and operators reached 240 , up from 227 last year. The countries of origin for brands are very diverse: not only Italy (143 brands), USA (36), France (13) and Spain (13), UK (12), but also Germany (7), Austria (4), Belgium (2), Israel (2), Taiwan (1) and many other countries. In expanding their global footprint, international chains have succeeded in having at least one property in Italy, which has the highest number of hotels and rooms in Europe (Eurostat).

Looking ahead, while the number of hotels will diminish (as recorded over the last 10 years) due to the 'retirement' f properties which are not appealing for independent operations, nor affiliated, chains will continue to consolidate and get closer to one fifth of the overall room inventory.

Montenegro

The market in Montenegro is fast-growing, driven largely by high quality coastal resorts built by foreign investors, supported by favourable investment conditions.

The Market

The hotel market in Montenegro is a fast growing market driven largely by high quality resorts built by foreign investors on the coast, such as Lustica Bay, Porto Montenegro and Portonovi. Currently there are only two domestic chains. Budvanska Rivijera with 1,751 rooms across 7 hotels is the dominant market player with a share of $42 \%$, while Casa Del Mare owns/manages 5 small hotels.

Conditions for investment are very favourable for hotel construction since the Montenegro Government has ensured significant investing benefits and tax reliefs on national and local level, such as general corporate profit tax and personal income tax as low as $9 \%$. This has attracted 11 international hotel chains and brands, which share $57 \%$ in total hotels chain supply, particularly in the luxury segment (primarily through luxury mixed-use mega resorts) with brands such as Aman, Hilton, Regent, Melia, Chedi and Iberostar.

2018 was a good year with a significant increase in average $\operatorname{Rev} \operatorname{Par}(27 \%)$ but Montenegro is still developing as a tourist destination. The expectation is that it will remain in the upward trend as more chains enter the market with the high-end resorts likely to improve performance and have an impact on the surrounding destinations.

Key Points

- Hotel supply driven by foreign investments Due to a favourable investment environment Government incentives and still underdeveloped coastal area, Montenegro is a very attractive country for mixed-use tourism projects with internationally branded hotels.
- High interest from international brands With 14 international brands present in the market in the Upper Upscale and Luxury segment there is clear indication that the market is of interest to global players, primarily for stand-alone high-end resorts.
- Privatisation may add more international brands The Government of Montenegro is going through a privatisation process for several state-owned entities, which may entice new international brands into the market and further enhance the overall maturity of the tourism offering.
- Citizenship program to boost investments The Government of Montenegro has introduced an economic citizenship program which allows foreigners to be granted the citizenship of Montenegro at the discretion of the Ministry of Interior Affairs and Public Administration through a designated investment. This program is expected to further attract investors within the already favourable investment environment.

Netherlands

The largest hotel chain in The Netherlands in number of rooms remains Van der Valk, with 70 hotels and almost 10,000 hotel rooms. The largest international chain is Accor Hotels.

The Market
The Dutch hotel industry is flourishing, having reached record occupancies, room rates and revenues and projecting further growth for the near future. Increased supply and demand in Amsterdam has led to a strong sense of 'overtourism' among the local population and politicians. As a result, a near total 'hotel stop' has been implemented. However, it may be some years before the effects are visible, as there are still dozens of locations where hotel developments are approved. Meanwhile, the cities are experiencing increased attention from developers/investors, and are expected to maintain a strong growth rate in both supply and demand.

The Netherlands currently has a total of over 3,500 hotels, offering almost 130,000 rooms. While $19 \%$ is chain affiliated, almost 60\% of all rooms belong to a chain. Chain penetration is high in Upscale, Upper Upscale and Luxury hotels, but less so in Midscale and Budget & Economy hotels. Chain penetration is highest in/around Amsterdam Schiphol Airport, and in cities such as Eindhoven, The Hague and Rotterdam. More rural tourist destinations such as Noordwijk and Valkenburg offer a large number of hotels, but few are chain-affliated.

The largest hotel chain remains Van der Valk, with 70 hotels and almost 10,000 hotel rooms. The largest international chain is Accor Hotels, with 46 hotels and 8,000 hotel rooms. The fast-growing domestic chain, Fletcher Hotels has now surpassed Van der Valk in number of hotels, reaching 87. However, as most Fletcher Hotels are relatively small, with a total of 5,000 rooms it is only the fourth chain in number of hotel rooms.

Key Points

- Chain Hotels

23 chain hotels were added in the Netherlands, with a total of 3,666 rooms. The most active chain is Fletcher Hotels, which added 8 hotels to its brand. The largest single addition was the opening of the 476 room Park Inn by Radisson in Amsterdam.

- Domestic brands

Newly active brands in the Netherlands include Cityden Up, a spin-off of the domestic short stay brand Cityden.

- International brands

The Irish Prem Group brought its serviced apartments brand to the Netherlands with Premier Suites Plus in Rotterdam. IHG introduced the trendy, super-green QO Hotel in Amsterdam. International hostel brands Generator and Via opened their first hotels in The Netherlands, as did Indigo and Pestana.

Norway

The market is mature and very brand heavy, in fact well over half of the rooms in Norway are attached to a brand. Many of them to local hero, Nordic Choice hotels.

The Market
This is the first time that Norway has featured in the report. The Norway market is a very solid hotel market with 299 chain hotels, placing then 10th out of the 22 markets covered. Even though the number of brands they have is small compared to the rest of Europe, only 19 well below the report average of 81 , the brands they do operate a lot of hotels and the penetration of chain hotels and rooms is relatively high, with branded hotels making up $27 \%$ of hotel stock and bedrooms over $55 \%$. This is reflected in the average size of the hotels, with chain affiliated hotels having an average of 165 rooms as opposed to the average market size of 80 .

The market is dominated by three players, two local and one Swedish. Nordic Choice hotels, a master franchise owner of the Choice brands are the biggest, with 4 brands, 93 hotels and 15,908 rooms. Scandic is next with 85 hotels and 15,702 rooms and third is the Thon Hotels group who have 74 hotels and 9,969 rooms

The market is very focused on the midscale and upscale markets, with $53 \%$ and $45 \%$ respectively. Nordic Choice is slightly disadvantaged here as their hotels share the same STR ratings as Choice worldwide, even though the overall quality is higher.

James Chappell, Global Business Director Horwath HTL Global

Key Points

- Choice, but not as you know it Nordic Choice is a master franchise with a classic stable brand which was reinvented for a new market It is also a good, rare example of an imitation, being better than the original. They now have 93 hotels and counting in Norway alone.
- Transactions few and far between The transaction market in Norway was subdued in 2018, with the top five deals netting a relatively small 55.4 million Euros.

Poland

The hotel boom in Poland is continuing and investors are increasingly interested in opening hotels as asset diversification.

The Market

The Polish hotel market has been in the midst of rapid growth for several years. Increasing ADR and Occupancy of hotels in major Polish cities were encouraging investor to open new hotels. As a result new hotel brands and new hotel chains are entering the market with incredible speed.

Based on initial announcements, by 2021 over 21 new hotels will be open in Warsaw, creating a new supply of 4,400 hotel rooms ( $30 \%$ of current room supply). There is a similar situation in Tricity (Gdansk, Gdynia and Sopot) where within the next 3 years, 9 new hotels will be open, creating a new supply of over 1,900 new hotel rooms which is also an increase of $30 \%$ of current supply.

The largest hotel chain, is still Accor with 75 hotels, followed by Best Western and LHG with 20 hotels each Accor has 12,584 rooms, followed by Hilton Worldwide (3,330 rooms) and Marriott International (3,330 rooms).

Portugal

Having grown strongly from a relatively low base following the financial crisis, Portugal is clearly on the map when it comes to being a force to be reckoned with in the European hospitality arena.

The Market
Portugal was voted the World's Leading Destination and the World's Best Golf Destination in 2018 by the World Travel Awards. Positive growth in Portuguese tourism is the driving force behind stronger hotel performance, but a lack of properties of the right size and at affordable prices, especially in Lisbon, together with a staff supply shortage that is starting to put pressure on personnel costs, are presenting challenges for the investment market.

Porto is increasingly on the city map, as well as less developed parts of the country such as Alentejo and the Douro Valley. Pressure from growing demand means that some projects which were put on hold during the financial crisis are now being concluded and released to the market. The Troia Peninsula and Alentejo coast, have number projects under development that will provide additional recognition, especially in international markets.

Portugal's Golden Visa scheme is behind many mixed-use hospitality developments, as developers try to combine the strength of the hotel market with the financial appeal of secondary residential sales within a resort environment Airbnb now has a tax agreement with both Lisbon and Porto and more than 50,000 listings in the country as a whole. Marriott International recently announced it was extending its home-sharing pilot to include Lisbon. It offers rooms in collaboration with Hostmaker, with guests able to earn Marriott loyalty points.

Key Points

- Local players have the knowledge new international entries: Strategic or Tactical? Three of the top five chains are domestic. 29\% of chain rooms are controlled by four domestic brands. International chain brands have yet to penetrate all of the key markets, being located mainly in the Lisbon area.
- Undiscovered Portugal holds the key to the future $50 \%$ of all chain hotel rooms are located in Lisbon, the Algarve and Madeira ( $65 \%$ of rooms); no surprise given the history of tourism in Portugal. But future growth is anticipated in the other regions of the country, opening up new opportunities across all categories.

Asset ownership will consolidate further, sparking chain management growth Chain penetration is relatively low which is to be expected from a market that is still quite fragmented in terms of ownership. 45\% of all chain hotels ( $44 \%$ of chain hotel rooms) are controlled by the top five chains.

Slovenia

The Slovenian hotel sector is predominantly publicly owned but expected to experience a restructuring process. This will open the market to investment, creating opportunities for a variety of products.

The Market

Slovenia is experiencing growth in tourist arrivals (12\% CAGR since 2014) placing it as one of the up and coming leaders in the region for tourism. Its offerings of nature and thermal springs have become popular, especially for transit tourists not looking to travel great distances. With approximately $40 \%$ of hotels being state-owned, the industry has been slow in keeping up with internationa standards and needs restructuring and investment in order to keep its global competitiveness. The government recognises the need for change and has approved the new Tourism strategy, which favours developing highquality hotel projects.

Hotel chains are dominated by local players such as Sava Hotels & Resorts, HIT, and Unitur Hotels & Resorts. The largest international chain present is the Croatian-based Liburnia Riviera Hoteli. There is very little in the pipelin for chain/brand development and only on a speculative basis. The performance of the hotel sector is still low in comparison to the region and growth is below the market potential. The new InterContinental Ljubljana and several new boutique hotels have been able to outperform the market, which is a clear sign of the lack of internationally competitive products and an opportunity for supply driven growth. With strong tourism growth, a limited pipeline, low penetration rates of international brands, limited hotel supply and the imminent privatisation of the state-owned companies, there are plenty of opportunities for hotel investors in Slovenia

Key Points

- Domination of state-owned domestic hotel Chains Domestic chains dominate the market representing top 8 hotel chains in terms of size (out of which 6 are state-owned companies). This also applies to hotel brands, as most of the domestic companies are developing comprehensive brands covering the whole portfolio.
- 2018 good year for international brands Currently there are 12 international brands present with InterContinental, Ibis Styles and Mercure opening their doors in 2018. This trend is expected to continue with interest from other international brands, especially in the Ljubljana market.
- Limited pipeline but high expectations

There are no confirmed development projects from hotel chains/brands. One 4* Greenfield hotel project in Ljubliana is rumoured to be branded but the project concept is still in development. The expected privatisation process may lead other internationa chains to enter the market.

Spain

Abstract

Growth has slowed for the one of the world's most-visited countries, but Spain remains a tourism power-house that continues to focus on combining established strengths and innovation to satisfy the customers of tomorrow.

The Market

Spain continues to consolidate the remarkable growth seen over the last five years. Growth showed signs of stabilization in 2018, registering an increase in output of $2 \%$ to reach $€ 142$ billion ( $11.8 \%$ of GDP, which grew by 2.5\%).

The trend for refurbishing and repositioning continues, as specialist hotel investment funds, together with existing property owners and hotel operators, come to terms with the mismatch between an ageing room stock and demands of guests. This rejuvenation is bringing new brands to the market. The relative availability of capital has helped to accelerate the process of creating an industry for future decades.

However, supply shortages in certain key markets such as Madrid, Barcelona, the Balearic Islands and the Costa del Sol, are reducing yield potential to an unacceptable level for some investors who are now starting to look eastwards in order to find the upside they seek. Supply shortages are, in turn, providing opportunities for new development, although unravelling the planning process and finding adequate project finance remain the main challenges for many green field sites, as well as finding the concepts that will satisfy the needs of the coming generations.

Key Points

- Growth in new chain properties has been modest International chain penetration rates have reached stabilization in a market dominated by domestic players. Significant opportunities for internationa chain growth are limited and remain tactical rather than strategic with two Accor brands (lbis and Novotel), AC by Marriott and Tryp by Wyndham now established exceptions.
- Refurbishment/rebranding of existing properties still on the radar for chains
The added value proposition of chain brands continue to drive the upside opportunities being sought by owners and investors. Improvements in profitability are very much focused on finding cost and distribution efficiencies; asset management is the key.
- Ownership consolidation will continue The entry of Blackstone as a key player with the acquisition of Hispania and Minor's interest in NH signal a shift in the ownership structure of Spain' hospitality assets. This trend will continue as a generational shift takes hold of the country as a whole

| Note: Sweden is a new market to report - only 2018 data available |  |

The Market
This is the first time that the Swedish market has featured in the Chains and Hotels Report. The Swedish hotel market is definitely mature and is dominated to a large extent by a few large 'homegrown' players. In terms of Chain penetration Sweden is squarely in the middle of the markets we cover, with chain hotels accounting for $20 \%$ of inventory and rooms for $49 \%$. There is a relatively low number of overall brands, only 25 , when the average for Europe is 81 .

Overall average rate and occupancy numbers are high, with the vast majority of hotels in the midscale, upper and upper Upscale segment. Staffing costs are too high in Scandinavia in general to support Luxury products, and even though there are a few, the ratio is much lower than other European markets.

In terms of Brands, three groups, Scandic, Nordic Choice and Best Western dominate the scene, with Best Western and Nordic Choice hotels having the most properties, 91 each, but Scandic having the greatest number of bedrooms, 17,446 from 85 hotels. Norwegian chain First is next with 40 hotels closely followed by local Swedish brand Elite hotels with 39 properties.

Leases are the most popular model in Sweden with almost all of Scandics' 85 properties being leases. This is a well-accepted model in Scandinavia and not seen as a disadvantage.

Key Points

Turnover Volumes Moderate Sweden is not seen a high volume transaction market, but investments were a decent $€ 230$ million in 2018 The most active players were Fastighets $A B$ Balder, LKAB Fastigheter AB, Vasterkulla Hotell, Midstar AB and Kungsleden AB.

- Local Money Rules

In terms of holdings, local players are the most significant holders of hotel assets. The largest, Midstar AB have 2,102 keys under ownership and KLP Forsikring have 1,264. The largest 'foreign' holding is a Norwegian fund, DNB ASA (Norway) that owns almost a 1,000 keys.

- Few International Brands

Since Hilton bought and sold Scandic, international brands apart from Best Western have struggled to get a foothold in the market.

Switzerland

> The chain penetration rate by key is already at over 26\% and growing fast. 36 chain hotels with roughly 4,300 additional keys will be added to the existing supply in the next three years.

The Market

2018 data (Jan-Nov) reveal an above average decrease of overall hotel supply in Switzerland. Over a ten year period $(2009 / 18)$ the number of hotels had dropped on average by $1 . \%$ per annum. In 2018, the country counted 114 hotels less than the previous year, equalling a record decrease of $2.6 \%$. At the same time, we logged 312 chain hotels representing an increase of $14.7 \%$ over 2017. Half of this growth is attributable to acquisitions and new hotel openings - the other from small domestic chains.

As a result, the average size of the chain hotels (number of keys per hotel) dropped from 111 in 2017 to 108 in 2018. The total key stock in chain hotels increased to 33,775 (+12.2\%).

From Jan-Nov 2018, Switzerland welcomed 17,962,034 guests who spent on average 2 nights and a total of 35,914,360 nights in accommodation. Even though growth rates did not match those of the same period the previous year, the nationwide average room occupancy rate rose from $53.4 \%$ to $54.7 \%$.

The strong pipeline will continue to push smaller and outdated supply out of the market. In the Zürich region, 14 new chain hotels will add approx 2,000 keys to the existing supply in all categories. Happily, and contrary to previous year's report, in 2019 the pipeline does not only include city hotels in $A & B$ cities.

Key Points

- Accor swallowed Mövenpick

2018 Switzerland's largest domestic chain group Mövenpick, was acquired by Accor. This transaction leaves the country with only one internationally renowned hotel chain: Kempinski. However, Kempinski operates only two hotels in Switzerland itself and ranks only 7th as a domestic group and 3rd as a brand

- International upscale chain hotels trump in size International chain hotels are the largest in Switzerland: they have 167 rooms on average; this is more than 4 times the size of the smallest category domestic $1-2^{*}$ chain hotels with an average 38 rooms per property and double the size of their domestic counterparts.

5 new international brands - strong pipeline With a-ja Resort, Harry's Home, Hard Rock Hotel, b_smart and B&B five new brands entered Switzerland in 2018. The pipeline for the next three years (2019 2021) includes another thirteen new brands waiting to conquer the Swiss market from East to West.

United Kingdom

One of the largest deals of the year, Starwood Capital brought their investment in the old Principal Hayley group, to a close by selling the 13 hotels to French company, Foncière des Régions (FDR) for $£ 858$ m.

The Market
The UK market was very positive again in 2018, both from a performance point of view and investments. In one of the largest deals of the year, Starwood Capital brought their investment in the old Principal Hayley group to a close, by selling the 13 hotels to French company Foncière des Régions (FDR) for $£ 858$ m. This also meant that InterContinental Hotels Group who will manage the hotels now, were able to bring their recently acquired Kimpton brand to the UK. This makes IHG the second largest hotel company (by rooms) in the UK with 340 properties and 49,311 rooms.

From a domestic brand perspective, the economy sector continues to perform well with Premier Inn clearly in fron with 801 hotels and 75,478 rooms, Travelodge came in third with 551 hotels and 41,876 rooms. Whatever issues the economy brands have growing their portfolio abroad, they seem to be having no such issues at home. Of the International brands, Accor is the largest with 257 hotels.

We re-stated the overall number this year to be in line with the Visit UK and UNWTO data which meant that chain penetration is higher. The penetration for hotels is almost $11 \%$ and rooms just over $48 \%$. So a relatively low penetration of hotels, 7 out of 22 markets, but a solid 15 for rooms. The overall number of brands present, 150, lags well behind German, Spain and France.

Key Points

- No Brexit Blues for Transactions

The UK had one of the highest volumes of turnover in the transaction market last year, with the top five transactions alone bringing in $£ 3.5$ billion. This also included the purchase of Principal.

- Owners

In terms of holdings, London & Regional is still topdog owning just over 9,000 keys, followed by ADIA with 7,958 and Lone Star on 5,431. Even after their Principal sale, Starwood Capital still owns 5,332 keys.

More coming
Looking at deal signing, the UK is near the top, 74 were signed last year for the UK. Chain groups have 21 openings pencilled-in for this year and 17 the year after

[^2]:    The Market
    2018 was a record-breaking year with over 10.6 m overseas trips to Ireland (+7\% on 2017). Passenger numbers at Dublin Airport reached a record high of $31.5 \mathrm{~m}, \mathrm{a} 6 \%$ increase. 2018 was the eighth year in a row that passenger numbers have grown at the airport.

    The Dublin hotel market saw an increase of over 1,100 new bedrooms during 2018, a $5.7 \%$ increase in room capacity. This represents the largest annual increase in supply in the Dublin market in over 10 years. There has been a notable increase in foreign investment in the hotel sector due to the positive outlook. Development activity for the sector is buoyant on the back of continued strong demand for hotel rooms and investor appetite.

    Dalata Hotel Group remain Ireland's largest domestic group and brand. Dalata continued to invest, adding 670 rooms in Ireland in 2018 across three new hotels, fogether with four extensions. Radisson remains the largest international brand with nine hotels ( 1,445 rooms). Marriott International are growing their market share by adding two new hotels in 2019 to add to their existing four properties.

    The outlook for 2019 remains encouraging with positive domestic and international economic indicators. However, hoteliers remain wary of potential risks from Brexit and any potential escalation in global trade wars.

[^3]:    Chopin Airport Development, a state-owned managemen company with 8 hotels under international brands, became Polish Hotel Holding (PHH), which took over chains AMW, GAT and WPUT. PHH's goal is to consolidate state-owned hotel chains and adjust them to modern standards of hospitality. Horwath HTL had the privilege of advising PHH in this process.
